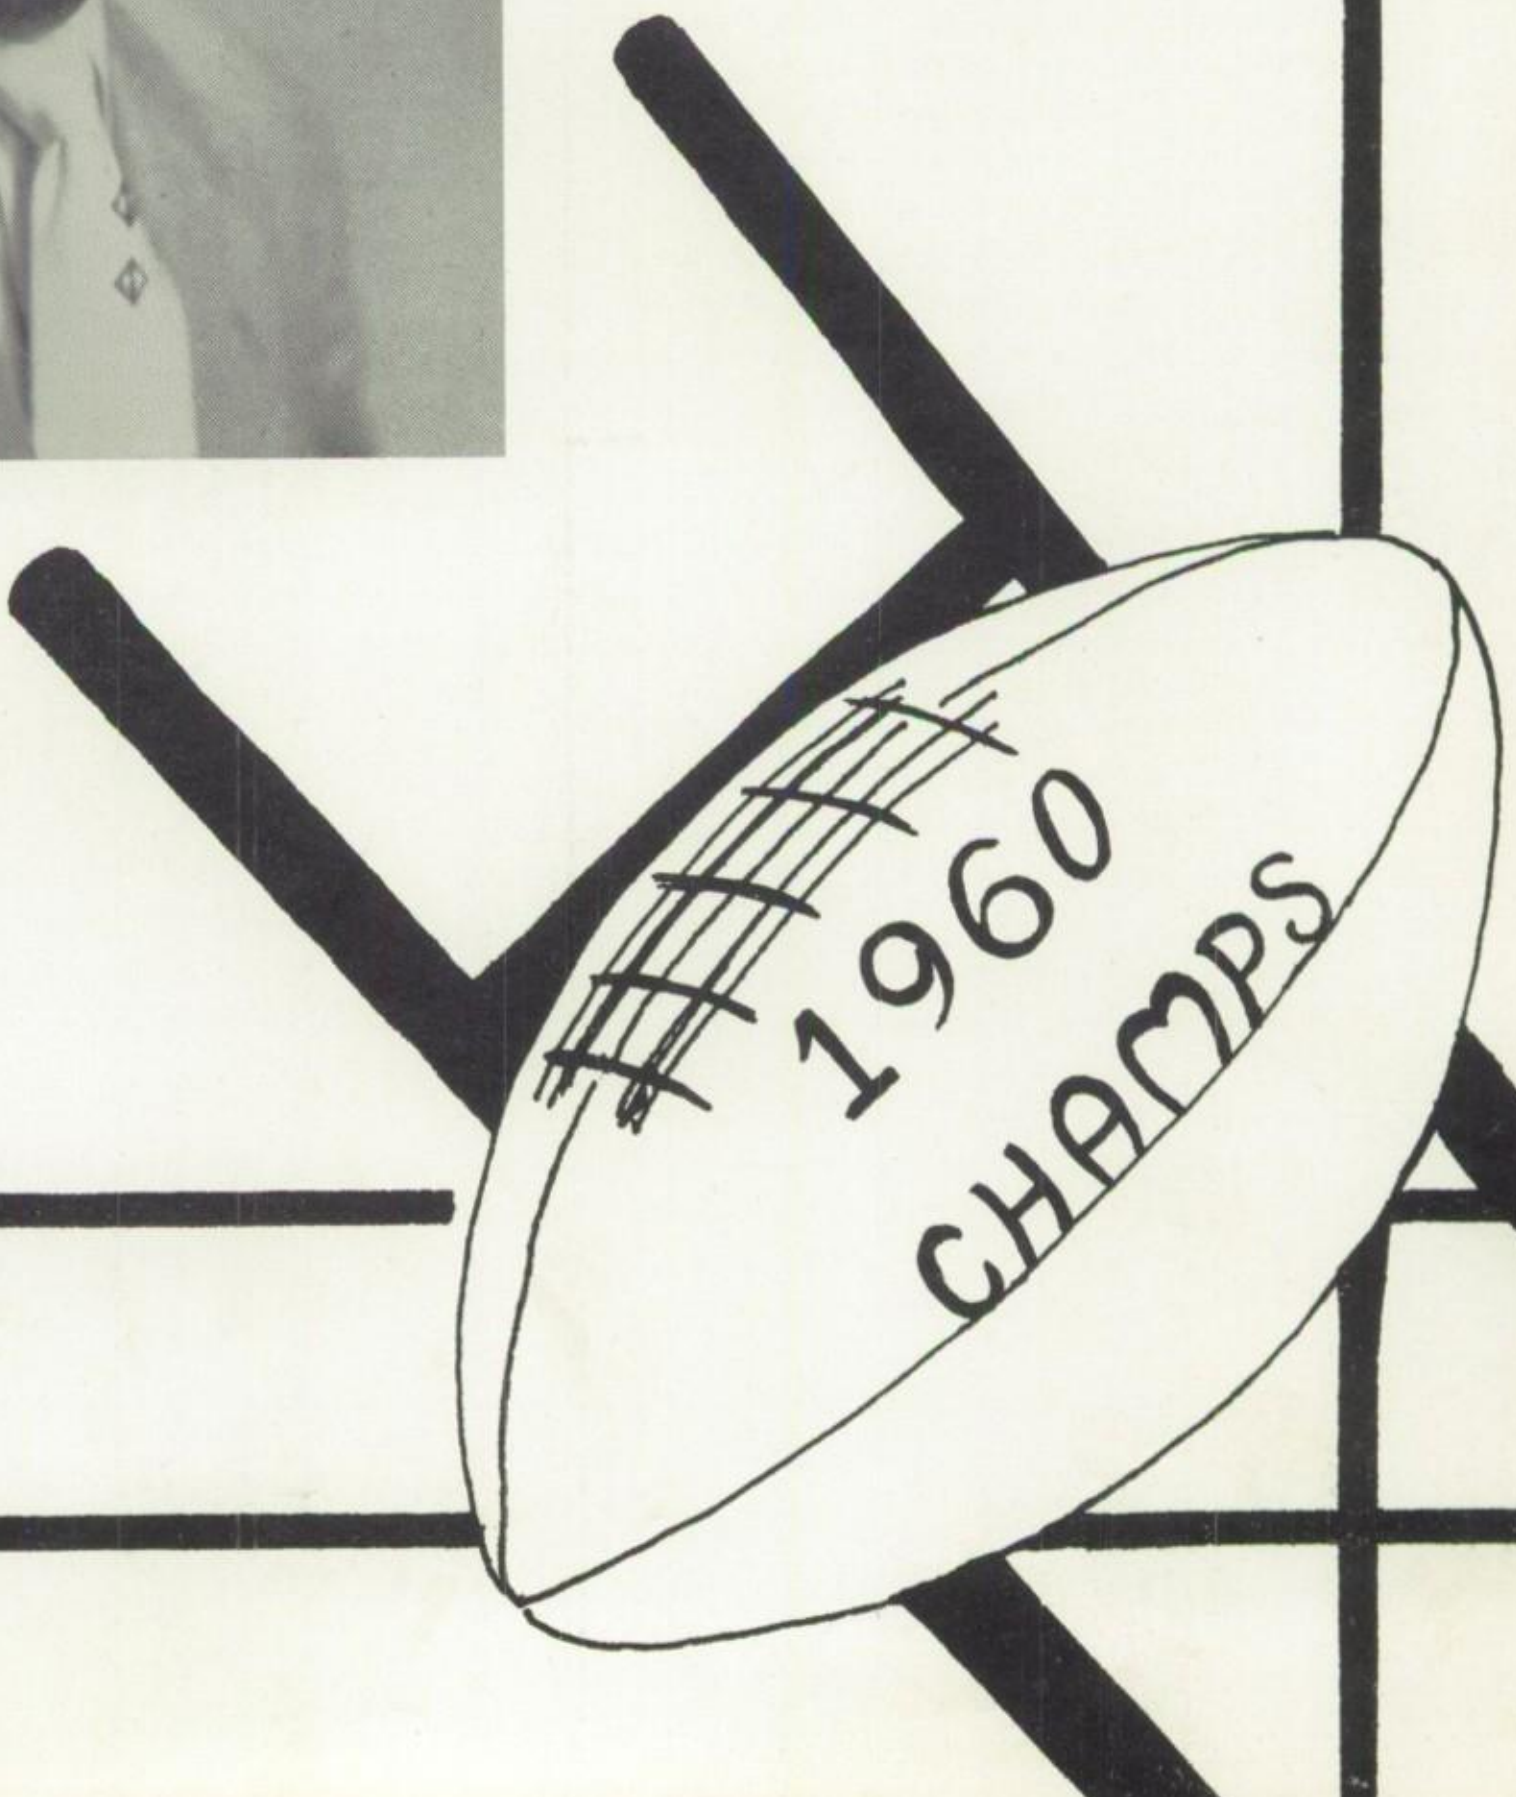
Dedication

Before departing from Carmel High School, we the Class of '60 affectionately look back upon the many memories which we have shared in the past four years.

Ranking high among them will be that of our undefeated football team, but even more important is the man who trained them, Coach Robert Stoddard. Not only for his work in football but also for his understanding and desire to help all youth, we the Class of '60 affectionately dedicate our yearbook to him.



An Outlook on Our Times

For those who have known, cherished, taught and raised us from our infancy, this is a time of great expectation, anticipation, and anxiety—for the time of parting is almost nigh. Their duties, whether performed religiously or intermittently, are fulfilled; that which is to be our concern will become our inheritance at the age of twenty-one.

Why is it that our destiny is in our hands? Merely because we are the youth of America, a mighty and powerful peace-seeking nation and after twelve years of preparation, we have reached a point of readiness or graduation into a rather unaffable world.

As teenagers, we exerted an influence on our mighty land which was not at all times a particularly beneficial one. Here we stand, a mere three years away from legal adulthood ready to enter and exert a constructive and beneficial influence on a troubled world which is continually looking toward the future, tomorrow, as the fulfillment of a dream of peace.

There will be many of us who will first seek a higher level of education before we take the final step ne'er to return to our childhood again; there will be others who will begin to live as adults after graduation. And finally there will be those who have wandered aimlessly along, neither contributing nor actually distracting and will continue to do so. For the latter, we feel a great deal of compassion. By falling to the wayside, they are depriving themselves of a sense of true accomplishment for nothing will ever truly be of them.

It is now nineteen-sixty. A new decade has begun. In many ways this can be compared to a lone shifting in the sands of eternal time. Whatever is to be in this decade will undoubtedly eventually occur, but for us "to be or not to be" in this time, is precisely a question worth answering. The search for an answer to this question plagued man long before Shakespeare's immortal "Hamlet" was ever written for there have always been a certain few who were content to let other men support them and lead them rather than use their own talents, whatever they be, and there will always be men of this nature.

In my estimation, the answer to this question lies within, and it is up to each and every individual to seek out this answer. I sincerely believe that our self-confident, vibrant generation will be able to revitalize the world and lead it on toward peace and the benefit of mankind.

It is up to us to bear the load, carry the torch and lead the way. And though our paths may sometimes stray from that of our true goal, and though we may lose sight of our goals, let us hope that we may see the light and travel on, for in our hands is the destiny and we are the hope of the world.

In Memorium

Under Mr. McCreary's guidance, Carmel School increased in size and academic standing. His faith and confidence in many students encouraged them to pursue the paths of higher learning. His patience and conscientious efforts, given to each student, were appreciated by everyone.

Busy as he was, he always found time to mingle with the student body, showing his interest in the welfare of each student as a person. He always found time to extend a friendly, "Hello." He was truly the ambassador of Carmel Spirit. He was admired by everyone not only as a Guidance Counselor, but also as a man.

Although he is no longer with us, the echo of his name will forever resound in the Halls of Carmel High. On the main floor, there will always be a small Guidance room, known only as Mr. Mac's Office to many students.

History of the Class of '60

The first day this year when we walked through that once forbidden front door, we realized that we had finally reached what we have been working desperately to attain—"Our Senior Year!" But now we sometimes wonder why we ever wanted to get here. So far it has been a "mad race" to get applications filled out and take tests for college entrance and scholarships.

Yet, in between these things, we have had time to have our senior play, "Rarin' To Go," which played to a tremendous (??) audience and our Holly Hop with that "beautiful" Christmas tree.

Naturally, the big thing is our Washington trip. Don't ask any senior what money is—he has forgotten long ago! How we have worked for these days.

We entered high school with a determination to blaze a path so wide that it could never be equaled. We would be an example to all future classes. As Freshman we were going to hold a very successful dance. Too bad we never quite had it! Might have been fun! Naturally, we also had cake sales as every enterprising group should. These made delicious desserts but hardly any money. Our English class's satire on Julius Caesar was the highlight of this year. Who will ever forget those straight-pinned sheets we used as togas?

Then, as we began our Sophomore year, we decided we would just have to start making money. So, we inaugurated the Bean-Pot guessing idea which has now become a tradition. We also decided to have a dance in March, the "Shamrock Swing." This seemed like it would really be a success until, as usual, something went wrong. Due to a snowstorm we had to postpone it. All those beautiful green decorations, on which we spent so much time, were wasted. Oh, well, there's always the Junior year.

Yes, there is always the Junior Year. That's the trouble! We sold everything from Ram pins, Christmas cards, fruit cakes, and sweatshirts to stuffed animals. We also worked at the football and basketball games, sportsman's shows and dog shows selling the famous Junior candy. Although from this it looks like we should have made a fortune, we always seemed to have a bill amounting to $10 or $15 lying around which everybody forgot to pay. Our main undertaking was the Junior Play, "Class Ring" which was a real success.

Junior

The history of our Junior class has been exciting, new, and different. For instead of just sitting on our laurels and waiting for the passing world, we risked the dangers of this blackboard jungle with its fierce rulers, and blazed a trail to capture that irresistible green animal known as money.

When we were Freshmen, we had a dance, "The Lollihop," which was a booming success. With Mr. Gibson, a few of our more "intellectual" students made their television debut on the Herb Sheldon show. Once in a while you could have probably seen one of their scrawny hands waving from the rear, and I mean rear. As Freshmen, our girls started the first Drill Team which has been "growing" steadily.

In our Sophomore year we held a dance, "January Jubilee." Oh, well, who said five dollars wasn't a nice clean profit? During that spring Mr. Trombetta happily herded us to the city to see an interesting movie, "The South Seas Adventure." Personally I think he took us so that he could see it himself. Also under the supervision of Mr. Trombetta, we supported and ran officers in a new third party which naturally won the G.O. election.

Well, now we are Juniors and going stronger than ever. Our skilled salesmen have done a good job distributing our merchandise. Our candy counter, relocated in the lounge, attracts customers by the scent of delicious fresh candy. We have managed to sell to the unsuspecting public sweat shirts, Christmas cards and other such necessities. This year the girls started F.M.A. Our prom and our play will, of course, go down as the best ever.

And so on we go to . . .?

Musical

One of the best evidences of unity within our school system is Carmel's superior Music Department. We take pride in having one of the finest 75 piece symphonic bands in N.Y.S. and the outstanding one in the county. Our conductor is Mr. R. Daniel Mooney. Without his excellent direction and, most important, his fine understanding of all his students, Carmel would not be in the position to acclaim such credits in the field of music.

We not only have the major instrumental groups such as the High School and Junior High School Symphonic Bands and an Orchestra under the direction of Mr. Margolus, but many branch organizations as well. We have a fifteen piece dance band known as the Car-meliers, accompanied by a vocalist Karen Millar. Needless to say this group excels and often plays selections composed by their director, Mr. Mooney. They have played at many away assemblies, dinners and dances. Another group formed by Mr. Mooney is the quintet. This group consists of five girls, who play the most difficult selections. And, of course, we have a terrific marching band which helps make our victorious football games much more colorful.

We are also well represented in the All-County and All-State bands every year. In fact it has been said without the representation of Carmel's capable musically-inclined students, these former concerts would not be in existence.

On the vocal score we are improving steadily under the guidance of Mr. R. Marino, who is in his second year at Carmel. We have a large chorus of Junior and Senior High students respectively. Likewise under Mr. Marino's supervision many branch groups have been formed in the vocal area. One of Carmel's favorites is the Men's Chorus. We are the only school to have such a chorus and you'd be surprised to see how many young men take such a serious interest in music. They, too, have sung for the Kiwanis and, of course, in our semi-annual Concerts.

One of Mr. Marino's other organizations is the Nonettes made up of nine girls, who appear at various dinners and concerts.

So whether it is Bach or Mozart, or just plain jazz, one can always find what suits him or her in Carmel's Music Department for we've got the leaders, the know-how and, most of all, the backing of any successful organization—loyalty.

Once again this year the Rams went undefeated, extending their string to 33 games without a defeat. This year's team rose to new heights as they took on such formidable opponents as Saunders Commerce, Yonker's City Champions, Highland, last year's Dutchess County Champion, and Tuckahoe.

To make the season a complete success, the team ended it with a resounding 52 to 0 win over the previously undefeated Brewster Bears.

Coach Stoddard, along with his assistants, Mr. Johnson, Mr. Gibson, Mr. Nussbaum, and Art Smith, have again molded a championship team after losing many of last year's starters.

Congratulations to the team and we hope that next year's team will continue Carmel's winning ways!
